Mr. Dulles:

a. Stated he was experiencing considerable difficulty in intelligently reading cables where pseudonyms and cryptonyms are only partially broken out. As a case in point he referred to IN 19603 and IN 19216. The Director said he realized that there were sensitive messages in which he could not show certain true names, and in these cases, if necessary, he would be willing for Mr. [REDACTED] to keep a list of sensitive pseudos and cryptos which could be shown to him (DCI) as the need arises. Mr. [REDACTED] undertook to look into this problem and discuss it with the Chief, Cable Secretariat, and work out a system to meet the Director's requirements.

b. Noted the most recent exchange of cables on [REDACTED] and stated in view of the contents of these messages, he believed our best purposes could be served by bringing this defector into the U.S. immediately.

Raised the question of truce violations by the VietMinhs and noted we had been attempting to get action on this problem for quite some time. The Director said he was glad to hear that "our boys had been on the ball", and as a result of the OCB Meeting on 9 March we now had this matter squarely in our laps. The Director said for the next OCB Meeting on 16 March he desired an outline of a proposed note on this subject containing the violations, and to include possible courses of action. Mr. Wisner undertook to follow through on this. The Director added that about ten days ago he had sent a cable to [REDACTED] on this matter and to date he had received no reply. He asked Mr. [REDACTED] to have the Station queried on this. In connection with the [REDACTED] it was noted that [REDACTED]
